Foreword to the Index

Purpose—The purpose of this foreword is to communicate to index users some of the characteristics of this particular index, and also to provide insight into the way in which the Indexing staff attempts to publish a useful, efficient, and easy-to-use index. You know how to use an index; this foreword and the suggestions for using the index are offered to aid in the effective use of this particular index.

Quick Index—An abbreviated index appears at the beginning of the first General Index volume. This quick index is organized by major subject-areas of Mississippi laws; it provides an alternative way to find the chapter of the Mississippi Code 1972 Annotated.

Popular Names Index—At the end of the second General Index volume is an alphabetical listing of selected Mississippi laws which are commonly referred to by a colloquial name or statutory short title. The Popular Names Index is an alternative method of finding Mississippi laws when the researcher knows them only by their popular usage or as designated by the Mississippi Legislature.

Coverage—Each section of the Mississippi Code 1972 Annotated through legislation enacted during the 2012 Regular Session of the Legislature, and each provision of the Constitution of Mississippi and the Constitution of the United States has been thoroughly examined and covered in the index. Also, included in this index is coverage of the court rules of the state courts; the text of these rules appear in the softbound Rules Volumes of the Mississippi Code 1972 Annotated.

Citations—Statutory provisions are referred to in the index by section number (e.g., §63-3-1213). A Table of Abbreviations identifies the Constitutions and Court Rules, which follows this foreword.

Philosophy—The index is a combination of two approaches to indexing, topical and descriptive word. LexisNexis® undertook this dual approach in order to provide index users with the advantage of each approach. The addition of hundreds of descriptive main headings to a topical framework combines the access provided by the descriptive word approach and the organization and consistency of terminology provided by the topical approach. The result is a user-friendly and manageable index.

Cross-references—Users sometimes question the necessity or desirability of cross-references ("see" lines) in indexes. Cross-references are used to keep indexes to a manageable size by reducing the amount of repetition of treatment under different headings. To make cross-references even more useful and efficient, LexisNexis® has taken the following steps.

Double Jumps - "Double jumps" cross references, which are cross-references to other cross-references, have been avoided.

Five Sections Rule - Cross-references have been used only to direct users to index entries covering five or more sections.

Group Section References - Group section references, which cite the user to the principal statutory treatment of a subject, have been attached to many of our cross references; this provides the user with the option to go immediately to the code for the cited material.

Main Headings—Main headings were derived from the language of the Mississippi Code 1972 Annotated, from the phraseology commonly used in the courts of Mississippi, and from terminology commonly used in the legal profession. In addition, an effort was made to employ phrases commonly applied to Mississippi Code 1972 Annotated sections, such as frequently used nonlegal terms.

Communications with the Indexers—LexisNexis® solicits your help in keeping this index as usable as possible and asks that you inform us of any popular names that may have eluded us by returning the business reply cards found inside the back cover of each index volume. You may also use the cards to tell use of any errors we have made or improvements you think we should make. LexisNexis® also maintains a toll-free telephone number (1-800-897-7922) for use by those needing immediate help in locating a particular section or by those desiring to make comments or suggestions. Additionally, you may reach the Indexers by fax (1-434-972-7686); the fax number can also be used to place orders with Customer Service. Finally, the Indexers can be reached by Internet E-mail; these communications may be addressed to lng-cho-indexing@lexisnexis.com. All suggestions, questions and comments receive serious consideration.

Scope of index—The general index does not attempt to cover each topic in the vast field of law, but refers only to those subject areas contained in the Mississippi Code 1972 Annotated. A thorough knowledge of the format and terminology of the Mississippi Code of 1972 Annotated contributes to the efficient use of this index as a guide to subjects.

FOREWORD TO THE INDEX

Suggestions—LexisNexis® offers a few suggestions for efficient use of this index. Creating an index involves anticipating where index users might look for statutory material. It is hoped that these examples suggest to index users how an Indexer went about this process of anticipation and thus improve the communication between the Indexers and the index user.

(1) Gain familiarity with the contents of the Mississippi Code 1972 Annotated and the index. Although it is not a predicate to using the index successfully, knowledge of the arrangement, terminology, topical treatment, analyses and reference system of both the Mississippi Code 1972 Annotated and the index is conducive to the efficient use of the index.

(2) Consult the principal subject and not the secondary subject. Thus, for drivers' licenses, look under DRIVERS' LICENSES and not under MOTOR VEHICLES; for attorneys' fees, look under ATTORNEYS' FEES and not under FEES.

(3) Search under commonly used phrases or terms of art. Thus, for wrongful death, look under WRONGFUL DEATH and not under DEATH; for declaratory judgments, look under DECLARATORY JUDGMENTS and not under JUDGMENTS AND DECREES.

(4) Look under specific areas of law and not under broad areas of law. Thus, for life insurance, look under LIFE INSURANCE and not under INSURANCE; for nonprofit corporations, look under NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS and not under CORPORATIONS; and for home solicitation sales, look under HOME SOLICITATION SALES and not under CONSUMER PROTECTION.

(5) Consult the most pertinent subject. Thus, for depositions, look under DEPOSITIONS and not under EVIDENCE or TESTIMONY or WITNESSES; for appointment of executors and administrators, look under EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS and not under DECEDENTS' ESTATES, or INTESTATE SUCCESSION or WILLS.

(6) Consult allied or related headings. If your search under one heading is to no avail, try a related heading. Thus, if a search under THEFT is fruitless, try LARCENY or ROBBERY or SHOPLIFTING or other related headings that may not have initially occurred to you.

(7) Use descriptive words or phrases to aid in your search. If you have trouble expressing your search topically, use descriptive words and phrases. Thus, if you want provisions covering a motor vehicle manufacturer's duty as to new automobiles that cannot be repaired after a reasonable number of attempts, the index provides the option of looking under LEMON LAW.

(8) Begin your search with "starting point" headings. "Starting point" headings are collections of entries or cross-references that provide assistance in getting a search started by exposing the index user to a diverse sampling of statutory terminology, which could suggest to the user other headings to consult. Although there is no formal list of "starting point" headings, the following have proven to be useful for that purpose: DEFINED TERMS (entries for all defined terms); CRIMES (direction to all criminal offenses); FINES (all offenses carrying a fine); PROFESSIONS AND OCCUPATIONS (list of professions and occupations).

(9) Use cross-references. Pay close attention to and make full use of index cross-references. An index cross-reference is a pointer, using the word "See", to the index user to go to another part of the index to find treatment. There are two types of cross-references, external and internal. External cross-references direct index users to another main heading. Thus, "LAWYERS, See ATTORNEYS AT LAW" directs the index user from the heading LAWYERS to the main heading ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Internal cross-references direct the index users from one subheading to another subheading within the same main heading. Thus, under the main heading TEACHERS, "Compensation. See within this heading, 'Salaries,'" directs the index user from the subheading Compensation to the subheading Salaries.

(10) Keep in touch. Let LexisNexis® know how you like the index. Contact the Indexers directly as indicated under Communications with the Indexers if you have questions about or suggestions for the index.
